

Beginning, Middle, End Graphic Organizer

This simple organizer is primarily used for helping students zone in on the true beginning, middle and ending of a story, thus creating a summary.

(use with a picture book or personal narrative writing)

The image displays three overlapping graphic organizer templates, each designed for a different stage of writing: the initial draft, a rough draft, and the final copy after revisions. Each template is enclosed in a solid black rectangular border and contains three distinct sections for the beginning, middle, and end of a story, each marked with a dashed-line box and a corresponding letter (B, M, or E). The top section of each template is labeled 'Title:' followed by a horizontal line for text entry. The 'Beginning' (B) section is the largest and is positioned at the top. The 'Middle' (M) section is positioned in the middle and contains several horizontal lines for writing. The 'Ending' (E) section is the smallest and is positioned at the bottom. The 'Final Copy after Revisions' template is the largest and is positioned in the foreground, overlapping the other two. The 'Rough Draft' template is in the middle ground, and the first template is in the background. The word 'Pictures' is printed at the bottom of the first template, indicating where illustrations should be placed.

Suggestions for Use

- Use all three sheets or use what is needed for the specific needs of your class
- Great for teaching the writing process (especially revising and editing)
- Identify BME from whole group read aloud
- Small group book study (literacy stations)
